Developing Community Partnerships

About the Workshop

Training Content

- Continuum of Partnerships
- Partnership Possibilities
- Overcoming Barriers
- Principles of Partnerships
- Exploring Potential Partnerships
- Getting Started in Your Community

Training Objective

This interactive, hands-on workshop will help participants develop skills for and an understanding of the dynamics of partnerships and collaboration. Developing partnerships and promoting collaboration among consumers, provider agencies, businesses, governmental offices, and community organizations benefit everyone; however, many admit that the going can be difficult. In this training session participants will learn that through systematic, creative, and persistent effort, truly effective partnerships can develop and thrive. Participants are encouraged, but not required, to invite at least one potential partner to attend (at no cost).

Target Audience

Job Developers, Job Coaches, Employment Specialists, Case Managers, Support Staff, Vocational Rehabilitation Counselors, Teachers, Vocational Coordinators, Transition Specialists, Peer Helpers, Vocational Evaluators, Guidance Counselors, Employers, Staff Trainers, Family Members

About the Presenter

Laura Ritterbush, M.S., CRC, has provided several years of training and technical assistance in the areas of supported employment, natural supports, and collaboration. Ms. Ritterbush's experience includes direct service, community employment program administration, program evaluation, and staff training. She is currently an independent consultant residing in Chesapeake, VA.
